We have much pleasure to inform all the members that another colourful feather has been added to the cap of our General Secretary Comrade S.R. Sengupta. The meeting of the Governing Council recently held in Ahmedabad took note of the event and decided to apprise the membership about it. Reserve Bank of India Employees Association organized a colourful and well-attended function in Kolkata on 16th February, 2013 to commemorate the 90th anniversary of their organized life. The organisation in British days was known as Currency Association which was converted into and renamed as RBIEA in the year 1935. On the occasion of the Association's 90th anniversary, RBIEA felicitated 7 (seven) illustrious Trade Union leaders belonging to different segments of society for their lifetime contribution to the movement of working class. Com. Sengupta was one of the seven such leaders. To make the occasion memorable, Dr. Amartya Sen, the Noble Laureate delivered his well thought lecture on "Trade Union and Economic Development". The entire function was well organized and praiseworthy. AIBPARC feels that it is a recognition of the glorious tradition of the trade unionism of supervisory cadre in the banking industry. Let us march forward from glory to glory.
